

Coed Cymuned

Ever wanted your own little bit of wilderness to escape to, woodland to build MTB trails in or somewhere to forage for food and cook on the camp fire?

Coed Cymuned will be a community owned and managed woodland that will encourage natural regeneration of native woodland plants and species. We'll spend evenings round the campfire burning wood we grew and harvested ourselves eating food we grew, foraged for or caught. When the fires burning low we'll crawl into our yurts, tipi's and woodland shelters to slumber under the stars. In the morning we'll get up to the spectacular sunrise over Snowdonia National Park and then spend the day hand crafting and riding our own MTB trails.

Coed Cymuned is looking for people to join the community and help build a sustainable positive future both on our own little bit of North Wales and in the minds, hearts and souls of everyone we can share it with.

Investment

Coed Cymuned needs to raise £40,000 to purchase the site and equipment for site management.

We are looking for investments of £2,000 to £14,000 as well as investments of time and expertise once we have the site purchased.

Coed Cymuned is looking to purchase an 18acre area of woodland that has been re-planted with a mixture of broadleaf species. We intend to encourage this re-generation but add further diversity of species and various edible plants. The site will be developed with sensitively created footpaths, fire pits and camp sites as well as a lovingly created MTB trail.
